Colonial Crown Moulding

3317 [1-3/4 x 1-5/16]

Colonial crown molding takes inspiration from many sources, primarily Roman architecture. Compared to similarly inspired neoclassical styles, Colonial crown molding offers a minimalist profile, relying on the cyma recta or reversa for character.

Colonial Baseboard Moulding

5401 [11/16 x 1-1/4]

S4S [3/4 x 7-1/4]

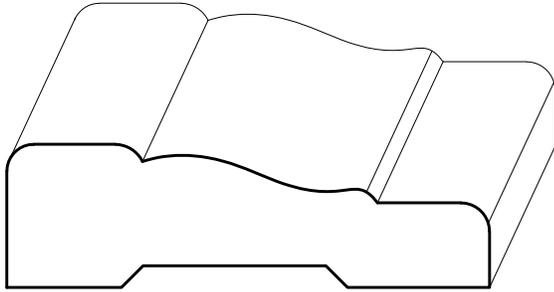

Inspired by Classical architecture, Colonial molding is less ostentatious than Georgian style profiles. Generally, a Colonial baseboard features a flat board with a profiled top edge, often in the ogee shape.

MOULDINGS ONE

Colonial Casing #1

1514 [3/4 x 2-1/2]

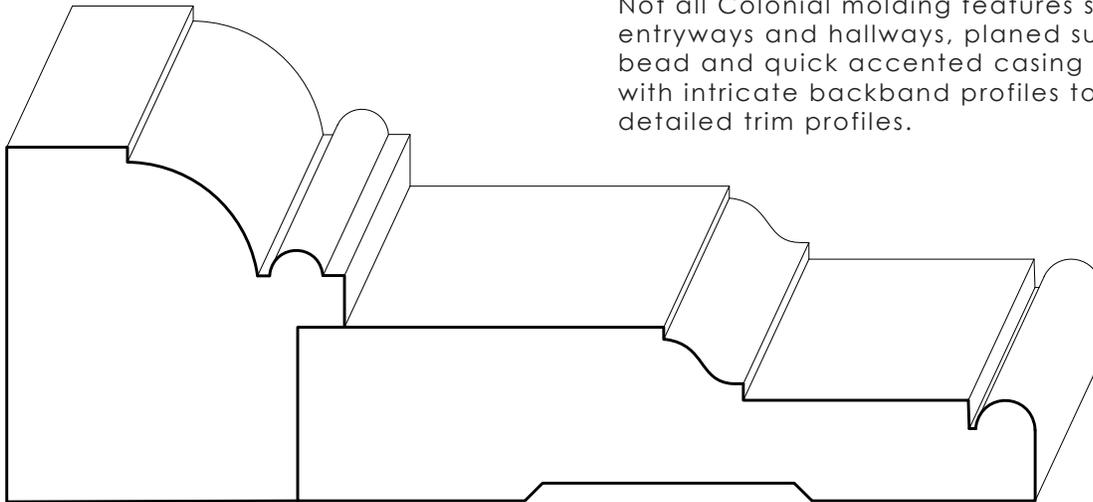

Colonial casing accents doors and windows, adding depth and enhancing their profile. Colonial door and window trim can feature simpler profiles than other neoclassical styles by relying on the cyma reversa for detail.

Colonial Casing #2

7095 [1-13/16 x 1-3/4]

1247 [7/8 x 3-13/16]

Not all Colonial molding features simple designs. For entryways and hallways, planed surfaces coupled with bead and cyma accented casing can be combined with intricate backband profiles to create richly detailed trim profiles.
